

Poland Seeks Ringleaders Of Poznan Riots

Now Western experts had taken the development of Russian air power seriously until two years ago. But at the May Day parade in 1954, the Soviet Union displayed a new bomber, known in the West as the Bison, which was clearly the equal in external design to the B-52. This was shock enough, but the Western Chiefs of Staff could comfort themselves on the assumption that it was only a prototype. But on the same occasion, a year later, the Russians flew a new generation of bombers, quite different from the others, other types of bombers and new fighters. The American authorities could not escape the alarming conclusion that Russia was producing military aircraft that were as advanced as their own, but was producing them in far greater numbers.

BUT the highly significant gesture the Russians did make. On Thursday they invited the Western Chiefs of Staff and experts to have a close look at the electronic equipment, navigation aids and instruments of their aircraft. During the past two years the Western Chiefs of Staff have comforted themselves with the belief that while the Russians might be able to produce advanced types of air-frame, and also jet engines of great power, they were weak on electronics and navigational systems. Obviously the Russians would not have invited such close inspection of them unless they wished to dispel this idea. What were the Russians aiming at with this display of power? Most likely they wish to demonstrate to the West the hollow-ness of the doctrine of "massive retaliation." Having shown in the past two years that they had the bombs, they felt free to retaliate against the West, they now wish to show that they have the power to defend themselves against the Western nuclear threat. Whatever the motives, the Soviet air display will have helped to clear the air for a real confrontation of the problem of economic not military cooperation between the East and West.

Argentine Ousts Soviet Attaché

BUENOS AIRES, Sunday (UPI). — The Government ordered the Soviet Naval Attaché, Captain Alexander Kuznetsov, to leave the country within 34 hours, it was announced yesterday. Well informed sources here said the Argentine Air Intelligence had linked Moscow with the June 18 insurrection.

The announcement came after more than 1500 Russian immigrants and immigrant children had returned from Argentina to Russia during the last 48 months, said a Communist Ukrainian source here. He accused the Russian Embassy of organizing a "repression."

The official attitude is that the riots were instigated by imperialist agents who would like to overturn Poland.

The Central Committee of the Polish Communist Party will soon start its much delayed campaign against the riotous foreign visitors gathered there for the big international fair.

The Central Committee of the Polish Communist Party will soon start its much delayed campaign against the riotous foreign visitors gathered there for the big international fair.

The Communists thought the first communique on the riots "did not strike the right cordillaries," but Premier Cyrankiewicz has been reassured after his appeal conference to the wage cuts which led to the steel workers' demonstration, he said.

"The strenuous application of regulations under appeal will be corrected immediately," He added that this decision had been taken by the Government meeting the workmen's delegation.

Rumours Start Riot
 Rumours that this delegation had been arrested started the disturbances. The Poles in the rioters' dormitories in Posen prison believed they were rescuing their workmates. In fact, the workmates were not even under arrest.
 Mr. Cyrankiewicz and other leaders attended the funerals in Posen yesterday of government forces killed in the riots. The agency PAP reported today that coffins of those who died at their posts were decorated with the highest Polish orders awarded posthumously by the Council of State.

Warsaw Radio today officially announced that the death toll in the riots had risen to 48, but denied "testimonies" that women and children had been among the victims.

U.S. Steel Inds. As 650,000

PITTSBURGH, Sunday (Reuters). — America's huge steel industry was almost at a dead stop today after a midnight strike of 650,000 workers seeking higher pay and better conditions.

Pickets lined the gates at 90 per cent of the nation's steel mills when the old contract between the companies and the United Steel Workers Union ran out at midnight, despite last minute attempts by negotiators to work out new arrangements.

In many places in Pitts-

Only supervisors remained on duty inside, taking over the stand-by work of keeping the furnaces burning against the uncertain future to which the strike will end. In many mills sleeping and eating quarters had been prepared in advance for these men on duty. They will remain there as long as the strike is sleeping and eating food brought in during the last few hours of refrigerated lorry.

In final statements issued at the strike deadline by company and union negotiators in New York, each blamed the other for causing the strike.

Cabinet Airs Planned Income Tax Changes

Eshkol Calls For Wage 'Re-Freeze'

By DAN SAVLY
Recommendations to renew cost-of-living contracts once a year instead of every three months, to "re-freeze" basic wages and to adjust certain inequalities in the tax system are among the more far-reaching proposals that will pay more. The overall income tax revenue of the Government is expected to remain the same.

There will be no change in the income tax payable by couples with one child, the Government spokesman said.

The relief for families with two children will be small, but it will be greater with each additional child. As a result of the higher tax credits for larger families, the Government believes will become entirely exempt from income tax.

At present, the Government takes about $100 million out of $100 of income over IL4,400. Under the changes, the ceiling will be 50 per cent of the income over IL4,400. It will come until incomes of IL10,000-IL12,000 are reached, the spokesman said.

At the House of Economic Committee began its discussion of the proposed changes yesterday, and it is expected to recommend legislation at the next meeting of the Cabinet.

Fun Drive

Strong Criticism
Considerable criticism of the proposed program of Mr. Ziskind and Mr. Pinhas Sapir, Minister of Commerce and Industry, was voiced during the Executive meeting at Mr. Becker said it seems as though these two Mapai Ministers, in their recent statements on wage and cost-of-living policies, supported the Histadrut's position. "The Histadrut is very active in their labor disputes with the Histadrut. Mr. Becker emphasized that this trend was most apparent in the present Histadrut approval of the cabinet's decision."

The Cabinet yesterday heard an optimistic report from Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, executive head of the State Planning Commission. He told the Cabinet that cash sales of Bonds in the first half of 1964 totaled $23m., about 50 per cent higher than last year's sales. The figure was significant.

The results were not as gratifying in financial terms. Dr. Schwartz said, but about as well as be welcomed as an indication of confidence in the government by the Jews abroad in the State of Israel.

Dr. Schwartz said that Even stronger criticism of Mr. Eshkol and Mr. Sapir was expressed by the Abud-Hakim group, who refused to listen to any talk of tightening the workers' belts. They claim that the solution to Israel's economic ills lies in the expansion of the economy.

One Mapam Minister even went so far as to suggest that more currency be issued if the Government cannot find the money to pay for the employment level. Although the debates became quite heated at times, it was reported that no irreparable damage had been done to the coalition platform.

On the other hand, Mr. Eshkol and Mr. Sapir, with the support of Mr. Narkali, Minister of Agriculture, maintained that the chances of expanding industrial exports under present economic conditions were negligible. Until the Government could win world competition in price as well as quality, the present stagnation of exports will almost certainly continue.

There has been no major change in the Government's foreign policy organization and the U.N. Secretary-General's mission.

Dr. Schwartz left for Paris accompanied by Mr. Abraham Keller, Controller of the Government Corporation for Israel.

The first meeting of the Government-Jewish Agency Coordination Board in which the present Government will participate is to take place shortly.

The Government's representatives named yesterday were Prime Minister, the Ministers of Defense, Foreign Affairs, Social Welfare, Interior and Labour.

The Cabinet approved a draft amendment to the Military Service Law for the sixth successive year, it extends the requirement that conscripts be given one year of agricultural training.

The Government also makes technical changes in the Law for the Payment of Compensation from Israel of About 11,000,000 has already

Industry Paralyzed Workers Strike

The shutdown of the mills, cooling the huge furnaces, had been a gradual process extending over the past four days as negotiators for the companies and the union sought unsuccessfully to end the stalemate.

Shutting down was an orderly operation, the union members complying with company orders to prepare and protect the costly furnaces and machinery.

Industry sources estimated the strike would cost $12m.

'Al Ahram': Khrushchev Says Israel Striving for Trouble

LAIRBO, Sunday (Reuters). The independent newspaper "Al Ahram" said today the Soviet Communist Party spokesman, Mr. Dmitri Ustinov, had told its Moscow correspondent that "war between Israel and the Arabs made a third world war."

The respondent in Moscow said Mr. Khrushchev also stated in an interview that "Western imperialism is the cause of a small state that hated stability and always strives for trouble." He added, according to the correspondent, "Israel does not want stability but time is on the side of the Arabs."

Khrushchev was urged to strengthen themselves and close their ranks, and to "close all channels of peace," according to "Al Ahram." He added that the Soviet Union would support the efforts of the United Nations, the article said.

Meanwhile, Moscow radio today said the Soviet Union was not "seeking military bases in the Near and Middle East. It is not seeking economic conquests in that area."

Certain "organs of the Western bourgeois press" had commented that "it is a pity the Soviet Union is not in the Middle East" to "stir up trouble between the Western powers and the Arab states," the radio said. "The Soviet Union has not contributed and will not contribute to stirring trouble between the Arab states and any Arab country," it added.

Speaking of Foreign Minister Shepilov's visit to Cairo, the radio said: "The talks between the Soviet and Egyptian Governments have formed a basis for the development of mutual relations in the economic and cultural fields."

French Socialists Support Mollet

LILLE, Sunday (Reuter). — The Socialist Party congress in northern France today expressed its support for the French government's policy in Algeria.

in Lille today approved the Algerian policy of the Government led by the Socialist Premier, M. Guy Mollet.

At the end of a four-day meeting, the congress also approved a motion expressing confidence in the Government's policy by pacification.

Official figures on the voting were 3,306 for and only 306 against. There were about 700 delegates to the congress, but it was a card vote.

The motion asked the Government to maintain its cease-fire appeal to those who are fighting. It called on the Government to take concrete measures against reactionary elements in Algeria and to eliminate from the administration those officials who oppose government policy.

The congress rejected a motion by opposition elements led by M. Daniel Meyer, a member of the General Assembly of the Party, which called on the Government to make contacts at the highest level and without exclusions to negotiate a cease-fire. (The Government has refused to make local contacts with insurgents to bring about a cease-fire).

Indian Premier, Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru, and the Egyptian President, Gamal Abdel Nasser, is seen by Yugoslavs as of world importance transcending the national policies of the three countries.

They are the three foremost advocates of "active co-existence," a conception many Yugoslavs like to think they invented themselves, and they are therefore unable to discuss their common aim of breaking up the military blocs of East and West. They can make their one-day meeting on the island of Brioni in the northern Adriatic as private as they like. It is now President Tito's summer resort and he has refused to be allowed on its rocky shores.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, which often represents the views of the Belgrade Foreign Office, said the meeting would "exercise a far-reaching influence on the Balkans and the Balkans to the south.

The airliners left Los Angeles yesterday morning for the Washington area, convinced that would have brought them within 1,100 feet roughly of the spot where the wreckage was found. A fire was reported on the morning of the crash.

The crash occurred in an inaccessible area of the Grand National Park and at a point not visible from anywhere else on earth. It is in the Grand Canyon. The search headquarters said a plane would fly over the area to determine if it would be possible to reach the wreckage scene. If this proved impossible, it would take two days to reach the wreckage foot.

Two planes were Trans World Airlines Super-Constellation bound for Kansas City and a United Airlines DC-8 headed for Chicago were scheduled to fly over the wreckage area.

Today's break with Past

Today's motion asked the Government to break with those who in the past have ruled by their power and fortune in Algeria. It urged the Government to open up agricultural reform, including the

The motion called for a clean-up of the Administration in Algeria to regain the confidence of the Algerian population, and the speedy withdrawal of the French military to the civil service to all without distinction of race or religion.

R. said that municipalities in Algeria hostile to government policy be dissolved.

Premier Mollet was given an ovation yesterday when he told the Congress that his Government's "appeal for a cease-fire in Algeria is still open, but that the Government is not prepared to negotiate on such terms."

M. Mollet announced that many Algerians interned under emergency regulations would be released on July 14 Bastille Day.

BELGRADE, Sunday (Reuter). — The coming meeting between President Tito, the Indian Premier, Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru, and the Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, is seen by Yugoslavians as of world importance transcending the national policies of the three countries.

The President of the three foremost advocates of "active co-existence," a conception many Yugoslavs like to think they invented themselves, has been president long enough to make himself unable to discuss their common aim of breaking up the military blocs of East and West.

Iceland Votes To Stay in NATO

REKIAVIK (OFNS). —

Iceland's general election

leaves the question of the

troops on her territory

uncertain, but it confirms Iceland's membership of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Independence Party,

which leads the outgoing

Government, has won most seats — 19 out of 33; a loss of two. This party, together with the Progressive, with 17 seats, and the Social Democratic with eight seats, is committed to the support of Iceland's membership of NATO.

The People's Alliance (a merger of Communists and left-wing Socialists) and the defunct National Protection

Party, oppose not only the American base at Keflavik,

about 30 miles from Reykjavik, but also Iceland's NATO link. Their small showing in the election indicates that neutralism here is not a popular sentiment. Party

spokesmen say that Iceland

will discuss with America

and the NATO Powers the future of the base after this year. Here the views of the Independence and Progressive parties differ. The Independence Party considers that

Iceland should think carefully

before revising her 1951

agreement with the U.S. authorizing them to man Keflavik. Independent leader

Olafur Thors said, "I am not sure we can yet ensure our defense without American help."

Compromise Proposal

Against this Foreign Minister Kristinn Gudmundsson,

who is a Progressive supporter, although not actually

a member of the Althing

(Parliament), opposes the presence of Americans in Iceland. Nevertheless he says he is ready to consider

a compromise arrangement

such as Icelandic and American technicians manning

the base together.

These details will be hampered out when Iceland negotiates with the U.S. Embassy, which is that the base, fixed by the 1951 treaty,

and Iceland's NATO membership, fixed by the 1949

treaty, are two separate questions.

One disadvantage of the election results will be the unbalancing of the Althing

Parliament. The Independence, the strongest party,

polled the highest number of votes in their history, yet

they cannot dominate the Progressives who made an election alliance with the Social Democrats.

Away from its political importance the election is almost a national sport in Iceland. When polling ended in the early hours of last day morning, Icelanders did not go to bed but sat up all night listening to the announcing figures as they flowed from the counting boards. And the close fight between the Independents

and the alliance of Progressives and Social Democrats

led to widespread betting.
